WHAT DREAMS MAY COME

FAMILY SKELETONS PART TWO

INSIDE SARAH COOPER'S CLOSET, WHERE A DOWNY BED OF DREAMS HAS BECOME A SPRAWLING NIGHTMARE...

I AM LURK!

WELCOME TO MY WORLD,
GLARE!

WELCOME TO YOUR DESTRUCTION!

PLOTTED BY: ED POLGARDY,
JIM SHOOTER, AND LEN WEIN
SCRIPTED BY: LEN WEIN DRAWN BY: LOUIS SMALL, JR.

WANNA BET?!

SARAH!
LET ME DEAL WITH THIS BEAST!

YOU SPEAK AS IF YOU ACTUALLY

THIS IS MY DOMINION, GLINT!

I AM ABSOLUTE MASTER HERE...

...AND I RESENT
YOU BUTTING IN WHERE YOU'RE NOT WANTED!

COME NOW, SWEET
SARAH ... LET'S NOT BE DIFFICULT.

OL' LURK IS GETTING LONELY
HERE!

OH,
PLEASE,
PLEASE, MISTER FLOPSO...

DON'T LET HIM
HURT ME AGAIN....

H-HE HURLED ME CLEAN OUT OF THE SUBSTRATUM.

THAT'S NEVER HAPPENED BEFORE.

AND THE CHILDISH DOOR THAT WAS MY ENTRANCE BACK INTO LUCK'S DOMAIN HAS DIS-APPEARED.

I'LL HAVE TO FIND SOME OTHER WAY BACK INTO--

WHAT IN BLAZES IS GOING ON IN HERE?

ISN'T THIS ROOM ENOUGH OF A MESS?

I'M SORRY,
MISTER COOPER.
JUST A--AH--
MINOR UNEXPECTED SETBACK.

DO YOU HAVE ANY IDEA
WHERE SARAH DISAPPEARED TO, MICHAEL?

I'M AFRAID I KNOW EXACTLY WHERE SHE'S GONE, RACHEL.

THEN WE SHOULD CALL THE POLICE!

THERE'S NOTHING
THEY CAN DO TO HELP US.

THEN WHAT DO WE DO?

WE CAN'T JUST ABANDON HER! SHE'S MY BABY, FOR GOD'S SAKE!

SHE'S MY BABY, TOO, RACHEL.

LET'S GIVE MISTER
ALEXANDER A LITTLE MORE TIME

THANK YOU,
CRAIG. THOUGH
I CAN'T EXPLAIN
WHY--

--I BELIEVE THIS STUFFED BUNNY MAY BE THE KEY TO BRINGING SARAH SAFELY HOME.

LOOK, RIGHT NOW I'M WILLING TO TRY ANY-THING.

YOU WANT US TO LEAVE
YOU ALONE IN HERE AGAIN?

NO, I'M AFRAID THAT DOOR IS CLOSED TO ME NOW.

NEW YORK CITY, THE AREA
KNOWN AS HELL'S KITCHEN...

9:24 P.M.

HERE, JUDAH...

... 'TIS HERE WE SHALL START TO GATHER OUR NEW FLOCK.

WHO ARE ALL THESE PEOPLE,
FATHER?

THEY SEEM SO SAD... SO HOPELESSLY LOST....

AND SO THEY ARE, MY SON...

...BUT THE LORD HAS GIVEN UNTO US THE TASK OF SHOWING THEM
THE WAY.

THEN WE ARE DOUBLY BLESSED, FATHER.

MY PODIUM, JUDAH?

IN YOUR CARPET BAG
AS EVER,
FATHER.

SHALL I SUMMON
THE CHOSEN TO WORSHIP
THEN?

MAY, LAD... 'TIS A DECISION EACH MUST MAKE ALONE.

WE CANNOT FORCE THEM TO SEE THE LIGHT.

WE CAN ONLY LEAD THEM TO THE TRUTH... AND PRAY THEY UNDERSTAND.

BROTHERS! SISTERS!
GATHER 'ROUND! LISTEN
WELL!

I AM CALLED THE PURITAN...

...AND I
AM COME HERE TO SHOW THEE
THE WAY!

THIS ONCE-GREAT CITY THAT SURROUNDS US HATH BECOME A DEN OF INIQUITY!

SIN AND DEGRADATION DOTH ABOUND AT EVERY TURN!

SO WHAT'S YER POINT, SPARKY?

YEAH, TELL US SOMETHIN' WE DON'T KNOW.

YE WHO HATH SUFFERED MOST GRIEVOUSLY AT THE HANDS OF THE SINFUL ARE THE CHOSEN OF THE LORD...

...AND I HAVE BEEN SENT TO GATHER YE THAT TOGETHER WE MIGHT RECLAIM THAT WHICH IS RIGHTFULLY OURS!

DON'T DO ME NO FAVORS, OKAY?

LIFE IS TOUGH ENOUGH.

JACKETS MINE, MAN! I SAW IT FIRST!

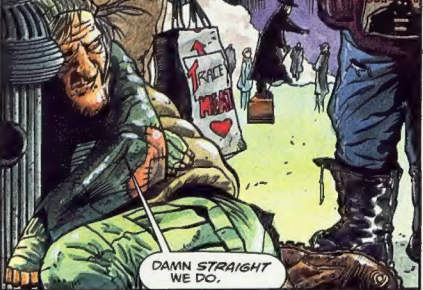

BUT 'TIS FOR JUST SUCH AS THEE I HAVE COME.

BLAZES YA DID!

DO YE NOT WISH TO LAY DOWN THY CHAINS?

TO REGAIN THAT WHICH THE LORD HATH DECREED IS RIGHTFULLY THINE?

DAMN STRAIGHT WE DO.

THEN JOIN ME.

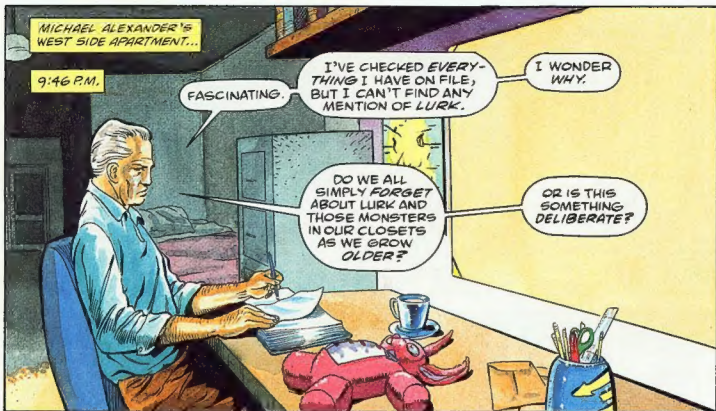

TAKE UP ARMS AGAINST THY SEA OF TROUBLES...

...AND BY OPPOSING, END THEM!

AMEN T' THAT, BROTHER.

AMEN.

WELL, WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

IT WORKS.

C'MON... TIME'S A WASTIN'!

HOPE YOU'VE CLEANED YER DRAINS LATELY.

WHY?

YOU KNOW ANY KID WHO WASN'T AFRAID OF GETTIN' WASHED DOWN THE DRAIN WHEN THEY WERE LITTLE?

NOW HOLD YER NOSE AN' HOP IN.

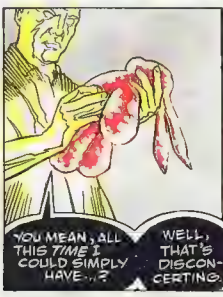

BUT YOUR HARD SELF WILL NEVER FIT THROUGH THE DRAIN.

YOU'LL HAVE TO TAKE IT QUANTUM.

I CAN DO THAT?

SURE, JUST CONCENTRATE ON BRINGING IT OVER.

YOU MEAN, ALL THIS TIME I COULD SIMPLY HAVE...

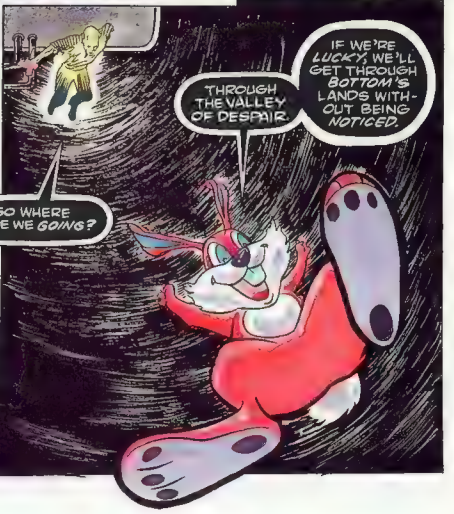

WELL, THAT'S DISCONCERTING.

DRAIN LOOKS A LITTLE SMALL.

NOT IF--

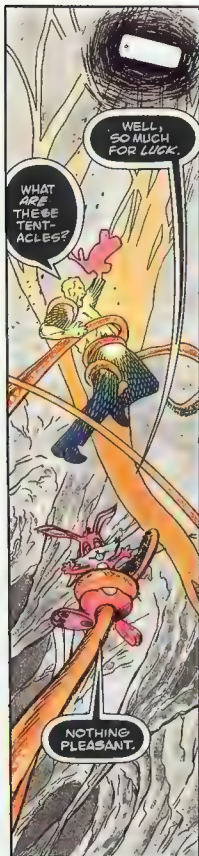

I KNOW. NOT IF I DON'T WANT IT TO BE.

SO WHERE ARE WE GOING?

THROUGH THE VALLEY OF DESPAIR.

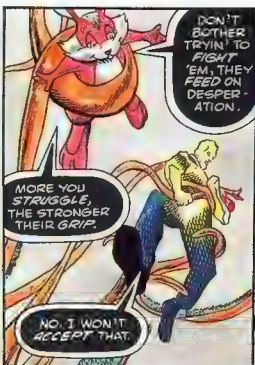

IF WE'RE LUCKY, WE'LL GET THROUGH BOTTOM'S LANDS WITHOUT BEING NOTICED.

WELL,
SO MUCH FOR LUCK.

WHAT ARE THESE TENT-ACLES?

NOTHING PLEASANT.

DON'T BOTHR TRYIN' TO FIGHT
'EM, THEY FEED ON DESPER-ATION.

MORE YOU STRUGGLE, THE STRONGER THEIR GRIP.

NO, I WON'T ACCEPT THAT.

I'VE DEALT WITH DEMONS LIKE THIS BEFORE.

YOU NEVER GIVE IN TO THEM!

YOU KEEP FIGHTING NO MATTER WHAT.

YOUR CHOICE, PAL--

--BUT DON'T SAY
I DIDN'T WARN YA.

WHERE ARE THE TENTACLES TAKING US?

BELIEVE ME, YOU
DON'T WANNA KNOW.

I'M TELLIN'
YA THOUGH--

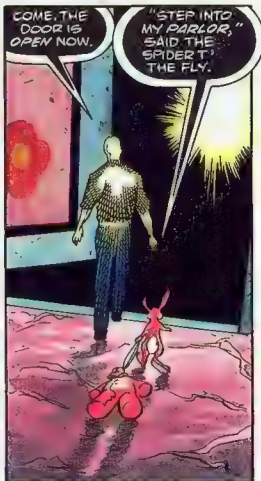

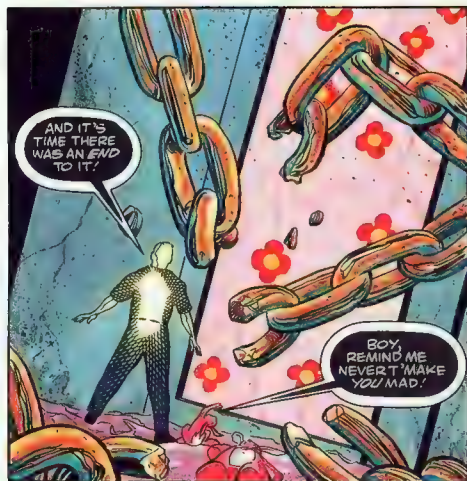

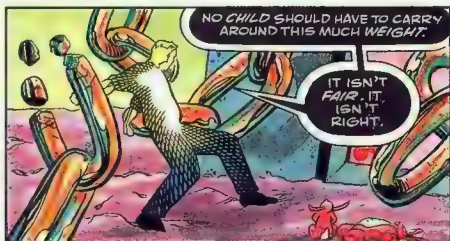

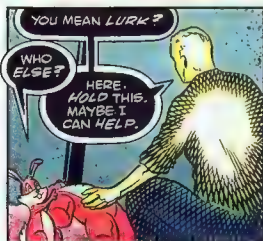

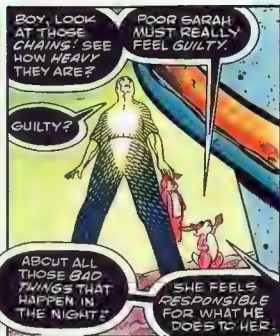

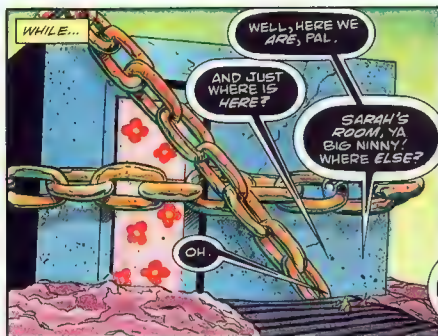

--YOU KEEP STRUGGLIN' AN'
THIS DEMON OF DESPAIR IS GONNA DRAG YA RIGHT DOWN INTO BOTTOM'S LAP.

YOU'VE GOTTA BE TOTALLY CONFIDENT.

BELIEVE IN YOUR HEART-OF-HEARTS THAT IT CAN'T HURT YOU.

LURK

Lurk was created by the collective id of children everywhere, and is the sum of all the darkest fears of childhood. His and as varied as children's imaginations. He is the creature in the closet, the "haunting" shadows under the bed, the voice that says Mommy and Daddy are gone—that bad things have happened to them the minute they're out of sight. Lurk gets his claws—and teeth—into kids so easily: when they're lost, when they hear their parents fighting, even when they go to sleep....

People tell their children that "monster" under the bed is just their imagination, that they're just dreaming about the "thing" in the closet. But he's real, all right. Real enough to touch. And deadly enough to damage or destroy every child he gets his hooks into.

It's not just the strangers in our world that kids should be afraid of...

Dear Editors,
I have just read DARK DOMINION #4, and all I can say is, "Yow—Red Hot!!!" It is your strongest effort on this title to date. The pencils by Adlard are perfect. The inking and painting by Wilson and Oclair are stunning. The writing was focused and interesting. I would love to see more work by this creative team. Please!!!

One thing I specifically loved was the dark look to the Substratum scenes, with the words printed white on black. I felt this was effective.

You have won me over to this title with this issue. Thank you.

A fan,
Robert Krug

Dear People,
The first two issues of DARK DOMINION threw out so many sparks that I'm afraid I'm disappointed by the third. Personally, I would like to see stories concerned with the effect the Dark Dominion has on the general populace of the Naked City. This last issue seemed to me to be more "comic booky" than the other ones. Still, I don't want to be too critical, as I imagine the Marvel intimidation contributed a lot to the patchy, rushed feel, so I'll offer some positive ideas instead.

You introduced Spiders of Anxiety in #3, so, if different demons feed on different fears, what about people afraid to grow up, afraid of being overweight (or less than some imagined ideal). Fear of failing to satisfy a loved one's "standards," fear of losing self-control. What about fear for the safety of others, for children crossing a road, or perhaps fighting a war for your country? This comic has such a brilliant concept behind it, so many opportunities for human drama, not just the generic comic book melodrama that dominates the field. This could be a true "adult" comic, not like the pretentious stuff that is constantly touted as such.

Have you read George Pratt's Enemy Ace book, ignoring the horribly "muddy" art? I found it genuinely moving, profound in its simplicity—war scars both victors and vanquished. It's the kind of story I enjoy reading, and I'd love to see you produce some similar "human interest" stories within the DARK DOMINION framework. Please, it's too good a concept not to explore it in this way.

Yours sincerely,
Ian Cairns

We are great admirers of George Pratt and of Enemy Ace (including the artwork).

Dear Mr. Polgardy,
I wanted to tell you how much I'm enjoying the DARK DOMINION series. After three issues, the story gets more rich as we go along. Glimmer and Chasm make great opponents, each with the same abilities but with different outlooks. It's nice to see a hero who fights evil with good, not his fists. (I wish I could see what's growing on some of the people that I know, as well.)

As much as we'd all like to see ourselves in Glimmer, and not in the direction of Chasm, I think most of us are in-between. I wish that I could have the optimism our hero has.

I really have no suggestions, except maybe to explore the quantum field a bit more. It seems that the possibilities are endless. Thank you, and good luck.

Yours,
Bart Gerardi
Brighton, MA

Greetings

Mr. Shooter & Crew—
I have no idea how many sugar-laced letters versus hostile letters you receive, but place this one somewhere in-between. I was with Jim and Valiant from day one. I bought, read, and devoured everything and helped finance "the dream," even starting a Voyager fan club (dedicated to being critical when needed [rare], with suggestions to keep it from being like the others, with their gimmick covers, steroid-infected superheroes, crossovers, and too many titles).

Jim left....So did I. I couldn't keep up! Running from book to book where no one... smiled anymore. Valiant and Image should consider a merger to save paper!

Back to DEFiant...I just labored through DARK DOMINION #4—it fell flat! There is no subtle "Jim" in the background, no quirkiness, no spark! All the titles are as original as heck, but I find myself drifting between them. Jim, you have to start writing the stories again—at least be more of an influence on them. Do what you do best: Write!

The most complaints I hear from the naysayers is the lack of art (on every title but one—PLASM). DEFiant needs more than one artist! Mr. Lapham cannot draw everything...but the others have to take a hike! Look at the first ten issues of Solar, Magnus, and Harbinger; that art made Valiant. The lack of Barry Windsor-Smith and Steve Ditko has hurt DEFiant. And I can't believe you (Jim) dropped a hint about Rob Leifeld. Noooooooo! If it comes to pass, Jim, I would hope you give him discipline, a calendar for on-time work, show him the confines of a panel, and no writing duties!

As we shall continue to finance the construction of your opaque castle on high, DEFiant's foundation is quickly in need of shoring up! We hope the lone lighted window receives "Enlightenment" as well!

Humbly?

Dear DEFiant Dominion:
The more I read from this series, the more I want to read. Now, with the fourth issue, I realize I'm a part of comic book history in the making. The plot seems to thicken by the page, which is roughly equivalent to the rise in intrigue and potential.

He wears a suit as he does his duty, he's old enough to have lost the colour in his hair, and he's a writer. You may know him as Michael Alexander or perhaps Glimmer or even Glare. To me, though, he can best be described as Defiant. Why, you ask? Because he doesn't fit the superhero mold, yet his bravery and dedication are beyond reproach. In the short time we have known this man, he has amazingly become one of my favourites. Where else but DEFiant would we be treated to such original concepts?

Most fascinating of all is seeing these outrageous-different concepts fit in the same puzzle. From a world existing on the quantum substratum to a world beyond the imaginary limits, DARK DOMINION and WARRIORS OF PLASM are as different as night and day, yet it seems completely natural to see Mr. Alexander and Mrs. Johnson converse. It is plain to see that WAR DANCER will serve to further tie DEFiant's line. I have not the words to describe my impatience, waiting for the War Dancer to spin his tale.

But that is for another time. Regarding DARK DOMINION #4, pass on my congratulations to Janet Jackson for her excellent writing debut. Where will we see more of her writing? If she can improve with experience, I'd hate to miss out!

Finally, thanks, Mr. Shooter, for 41 pages with no increase in cover price. Why, there wasn't even a big, flashy, "41-page spectacular" caption on the cover. Unbelievable.

EDITOR IN CHIEF

Our Creative Director, Janet Jackson, is thinking of changing her name to Sheena Easton to avoid confusion.

Just kidding.

Jayjay, as she prefers to be called, for obvious reasons, is one of the brightest and best talents to grace our medium. She's the best colorist—we usually say "painter," since our repro process allows for full-color, three-dimensional rendering—in the business. She's an outstanding graphic designer, photographer, technical illustrator, and mechanical artist. She's also a pre-press and printing expert—a real Renaissance woman.

Not quite best of all, but close, she possesses the kind of brilliant conceptual mind that allows her to create, to invent, to build universes from pure thought. As I've said in this column before, she was responsible for more of the creation of the characters and concepts of the last universe we worked on together—the Valiant universe—than anyone except me. She receives no credit from the corporate pirates and their purchased lackeys who stole Valiant from me, no royalties—and they haven't even paid her the $28,000 in back pay they owe her—but I know what she meant to the success of Valiant, and you should, too. Jayjay got the concept, and was actively contributing while those who'd like you to believe they created it all were insisting that Harbinger was "too different." They didn't get it.

Anyway, Jayjay is at it again, helping to build the DEFIANT Universe. She gets it. She's contributing mightily.

There is nobody better.

But best of all, she's started writing.

One reason Jayjay's incredible creative ability has been such a secret is that her input has been largely the behind-the-scenes kind, and her name has appeared in the credits almost exclusively as a painter.

Not anymore. Jayjay's first solo flight as a writer was "Bad Moon Rising," the powerful and gritty tale featured in DARK DOMINION #4. It's outstanding.

I believe that it is the best first effort I've ever seen from any writer. Roll that one around in your mind.

Let me clue you in about another talent to watch—an amazing all-around artist named Adam Pollina. His first work was for Triumphant Comics on a series called Chromium Man. We felt he was ready and gave him a chance penciling CHARLEMAGNE, which begins monthly in March. Remember when Michael Golden arrived on the scene with his debut on Micronauts?

Watch this guy.

Another thing I'd like to mention is DEFIANT's upcoming mega-crossover—our first. It's called SCHISM. You can see the weave beginning now in all our titles, though the roots of the saga go all the way back to the beginning of time.

Now, I can hear you thinking—is this one of those deals where they try to force me to buy things I don't want to get some gimmick or premium? No. I guarantee you there won't be any trading cards or reward gimmicks for buying them all. The "gimmick" is that it's good.

It's the best I've ever done—and Jayjay is contributing brilliantly. So are Adam, Len, David, and other DEFIANT creative forces.

It'll be "too different" for certain unimaginative weasels. They won't get it.

I think you will, though.

SCHISM

Defiantly,

Jim Shooter

THE GOOD GUYS™

J. Clark Smith

SALES/MARKETING MANAGER

On the eve of our next two title launches (WAR DANCER and CHARLEMAGNE), I thought I would take the opportunity to bring you up-to-date on some of the marketing-related doings here at DEFIANT. First, as you might have heard, CHARLEMAGNE #0—which was written by Jim Shooter, penciled by Adam Pollina, and inked by Mike Witherby—will be polybagged in Hero Illustrated #9 (not bound-in as originally planned). This Zero Issue will not be printed again as a stand-alone comic but will eventually be included in a CHARLEMAGNE trade paperback collection.

We were so pleased with the fan interaction with The Good Guys Casting Call Contest that we decided to do another one. This time it's The Bad Guys we're looking for, and we're going to choose one Bad Guy from among fans 16 and older, and one from among comic book retailers. The prize is $1,000 cash for each winner, plus each winner's name and likeness created into a villain who will die a terrible death in an upcoming issue of THE GOOD GUYS. The contest rules and entry forms can be found in issue #32 of Wizard (March cover date) and issue #7 of Entertainment Retailing (February cover date). Good luck, and may the worst guy—or gal—win!

Scheduled to begin in March, DEFIANT will be producing a newsletter for fans and retailers.

We haven't yet decided what to call the newsletter (my idea was to call it "DEFIANT Newsletter"—so much for my imagination!), but, regardless, it should offer you an interesting insider's view of some of the goings-on here at DEFIANT.

Due to popular demand, Jim Shooter will be conducting many of his "How to Create Comics" seminars in the upcoming months. When Jim was asked why he started these seminars, he explained, "I want to give something back to the industry." Looks like he'll get his wish, if even a fraction of the hundreds of people who've attended his seminars take to heart Jim's tips on creating, writing, and drawing comics! Future seminars will be held at the University of Oklahoma; Los Angeles's Golden Apple Comics; San Francisco's Golden Gate Park; and the Chicago Comic-Con. Hero Illustrated has agreed to be our cosponsor for these events, supplying every attendee with a free packet of art supplies. Watch for seminars in your area! Until then, stay DEFIANT!
